Scientific Burglary.

In an esectrical display at the Columbian exposition there was shown, in operation an appliance or machine for boring holes through various metals by means of electrical heat. The operator explained to an interested visitor that the heat generated by the electricity almost instantly took the "temper" out of the hardest metals—even case-hardened etsel—and that the softened metal could then be meltod almost as easily as lead. The visitor was Chicago's most notorious chiminal, "Sleepy" Burke, the burglar, and so well has lie improved upon the information obtained that a revolution in "safes" is already progressing.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Bloody Battles.

More lives were lost at the battle of Leipsic than at any other. It took place October 16, 18, and 19, 1813, between the French and the Austrians, Presisins, and Russins. The French were 160,000 strong, the allies 240,000. More than 80,000 men perished, and the French were defeated. Such losses throw into the shade the losses of the American war. At Gettysburg 33,000 were killed and wounded; at Chicamanga, 28,000. In the battles of the Wilderness 6,788 men were killed, and at Spottsylvania, 6,396. In the final attack on Kars, during the Russo-Turkish war of 1877-78, 8,000 men fell. The losses in the attacks on the Shipka pass amounted, to about 20,000 men, and before Plevna some 30,000 men, and Defore Plevna some 30,000 men,

REPORTING IN THE SOUTH.

A Newspaper Man's Experience in Getting News.

A newspaper man who had worked in the south was telling a Star reporter of some of his experiences.

The Ministry of Ministry o of it.

"My experiences with this order recall the fun I had, when a very young man, reporting republican ward meetings in the south. These meetings were attended wholly by colored citizens, and every man in the crowd had his razor with him. As a rule, the meetings were held by the flicker of dim oil lamps. Two out of three times the meetings would break up in a row, the lights would be put out and there would be suffling serambling and the seudding of dark figures. At one of hese meetings, after the scene deserbed, the police arrived, and with lanterns ascertained the situation. Two or three men were lying on the floor, badly whacked with razor cuts while under every bench and behind every box of them places of safety until the cut was over. After the police arrived there was a general demand to know 'who struck me on the head?' and 'who done dat foul lick while I wust tryin' to preserve peace? Representative George Murray, the colored member of the house, represents a district where such things occurred frequently years ago. These disturbances often came about over the rulings of the chairmen, but the colored citizen now understands parliamentary tactics better, and the chairman is never in so dangerous a predicament. This also reminds me that I have traveled through portions of Mr. Murray's district for hours without seeing a white face. It is known as the 'black district' because of the unusual predominance of colored people. This is especially so in the rice fields back from the coast. This section is so full of malaria that a white man cannot live in it. White was acclimated, and rarely get sold. War, They complete are to them, but in the fields ham they worked for thom as long the surface. The megroes are acclimated, and rarely get sold. War from the men and are kindly treated."—Washington Star.

Curiosities of Nomenclature.

Our iosities of Nomenciature.

Perhaps the strangest specimen of local nomenciature in the United States is furnished by South Carolina, which has a post office named Catarrh. But the following are not bad in their they: Grubgulch, Pulltight, Yum Yum, Stouderblade, Ink, Mud, and destup. There are a Romutas and Romus, a Romeo and Julic, mo Pruly and 11 Rurals, but no combination of both. Georgia has its Payup, and Rhode Island its Quonechontaug; and Kentucky has its Rabbit Hash, Teatearsville, Tarheel, Pope, Maddeg, Taffy, Jamborce, and Nazareth, Hore are a few other strauge nature. Resolution of Respect.

At a meeting of the city council held last Friday night the following the death of the late Henry Layne, seminer of the police force, were adopted:

What a Man Cas Do With $1,000

He can buy 180 acres of good land for $1,000. Pay $100 down, balance in three payments with the payments of $300. The milk and butter from the cows will pay all farm and family expenses. The increase of sheep and wool will pay off the mortgage before it is due. In five years he will have a farm all paid for and well have a farm all paid for and well have a farm all paid for and well stocked. For descriptive lists and prices address H. F. Hunter, Immigration agent for South Dakota, 285 Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

A Great Suc-

Mrs. Ada Layne's spring opening of millinery goods occurred Thursday Friday and Saturday of last week, and was pronounced by all to be great success in every way. Not, withstanding the damp weather large crowds visited her store each day to feast their eyes on the handsome display, and her sales proved even heavier than was expected. Mrs. Layre carries a very large stock and br salesladies takes the greatest pride in showing te the best advantage their lines of goods. The Palace's extremely low prices give the people every cause to respond with liberal patronage and the indications are that Mrs. Layne's business this season will be very heavy.

Namsen submitted his specimens to Prof. Cleve, of Upsala, who, after identifying 16 species and varieties, reported on them as follows: "The diatom flora of this dust is quite peculiar and different from that of all the many thousands of samples which I have examined, with the exception of one, with which it shows the most complete congruity, viz., a sample which was collected by Kjellman (during the Vega expedition) on the floe ice at Cape Wankarema, near Behring straits. The species and the varieties are exactly the same in both samples. It is quite remarkable that, the diatom flora on ice-floes near Behring sound and on the east coast, of Greenland are so completely alike and so unlike all others. It indicates that there is an open communication between the sease cast of Greenland and north of Asia." Namsen adds: "All these (referring to his own specimens) were also found at Cape Wankarema, 12 of them being only known from there and from nowhere else in the whole world; and that though the diatom flora of the Kara sea, Franz Josef land, Spitzbergen and Greenland has also been partly examined." All through his paper Namsen ahoved his keen appreciation of little things. The minerals in the dust were also examined, no less than 20 varieties being recognized by Tormbohn, who exclaims? 'Can it be possible that the terrestrial portions of the dust originate from northern Siberia."

The Glass Snake.

The Glass Snake

The Glass Snake.

The superstition that the glass snake breaks in pieces at a sudden alarm and reunites its various parts after the danger is over, arises from the fact that when threatened with tatack by a bird or animal this snake throws off its tail, which wiggles about on the ground and distracts the attention of the enemy while the snake makes its escape. This peculiar means of cluding attack is practiced also by two or three kinds of lizards. Both snake and lizards grow a new tail in a few weeks.

TIRED OUT AN OLD HAND.

TIRED OUT AN OLD HAND. Edison Was a Crack Operator in His Younger Days.

Younger Days.

"I was an operator in the Memphis office when Thomas A. Edison applied to the manager for a place," said A. G. Rockerfeller, of the Remisseence club, St. Louis. "He came walking into the office one morning looking like a veritable hayseed. He were a shirt, a pair of butternut trousers tucked into the tops of boots a size too large and guiltless of blacking. "Where's the boss? was his query, as he glanced round the office. No one replied at once, and he repeated the question. The manager asked him what he could do for him, and the future-great proceeded to strike him for a job. Business was rushing and the office was two men short, so almost any kind of a lightning-slinger was welcome. He was suigned to a desk, and a fusiliade of winks went the rounds, for the jay was put on the St. Louis wire, the hardest in the office.

"At the end of the line was a man who was chain lightning, and knew it.

was put on the St. Louis wire, the hardest in the office.

"At the end of the line was a man who was chain lightning, and knew it. Edison had hardly got seated before St. Louis called. The newcomer responded, and St. Louis started in on a long report, and he jumped it in like a house afire. Edison threw his leg over the arm of his chair, leisurely transferred a wad of spruce gum from his pocket to his mouth, picked up a pen, examined it critically, and started in about 200 words behind. He didn't stay there long, though. St. Louis let out another link of speed, and still another, and the instrument on Edison's table hummed like an old-style Singer sewing machine. "Every man in the office left his deak and gathered round the 'jay' to see what he was doing with that electric cyclone. Well, sir, he was right on the word, and was putting it down in the prettiest copper-plate hand you ever saw, even crossing his 't's, and dotting his 's's, and punctuating with as much care as a man editing telegraph for country printers. St. Louis got tired by and by, and began to show down. Edison opened the primer class! Get here this is no counter class! Get here this is no counter class! Get here this is not primer class! Get here this in our office who could walk over him made us feel like a man whose horse had won the Derby. I saw the 'Wizard' not long ago. He doesn't wear a hickory shirt nor put his pants in his boots, but he is very far from being a dude yet."—Practical Electricity.
